

Cookie Policy

Last updated on 25 April, 2024

Vertex may collect and disclose cookie and other data collection technologies (“Cookies”) to third-party partners, including service providers, basic identification information, device information and other unique identifiers, related to your activity on our website and applications, such as your location, pages visited, custom events, certain interactions with trading features, and commercial data. You may accept or reject all Cookies by clicking on the “Accept All” or “Reject All” button below. You may withdraw your consent with respect to Cookies at any time.

Unlimited Technologies Pte. Ltd., Blitz and their affiliated companies (collectively, “Vertex”) use Cookies to analyze our website traffic and to provide advertising content and social media features that may be interesting to you. We also share information about your use of our website and applications with our analytics, advertising, and social media partners, who may combine your information with other information that they have collected from you or through your use of their services. You may withdraw your consent with respect to Cookies at any time by changing your preferences. Please note that when you choose to block Cookies, certain features of the website and applications may not be available to you or may impact your experience on our website and applications.

You can learn more about our collection and processing of your personal information by visiting our Privacy Policy.